

Purple People Eater

purpura homocarnivorous

Animal Description:

(should include weight, size, difference between males and females)

The one eyed, one horned, flying purple people eater has scaled feet, feathered wings, and fur covering the legs and abdomen. It weighs anywhere from 150lbs to 200lbs. The only known distinction in gender is the propensity of females to buy excessive amounts of hair product.

Habitat:

(where the animal lives (range), shelter, climate)

The habitat of the purple people eater is anywhere that humans live. They have been spotted on every continent, but are particularly well adapted to cooler climates because of their heavy fur coat.

Diet:

(food eaten)

The diet of the purple people eater consists mainly of humans.

Reproduction:

(eggs, live birth, etc.)

As the life-cycle of the purple people eater has never been completely observed (largely due to researchers being eaten before they share their findings) the reproduction of the purple people eater is unknown.

Lifespan:

25-50 years.

Did you know?

(one random fact)

"The Purple People Eater" was a novelty song by Barry Cryer and performed by Sheb Wooley. It reached #1 on the Billboard pop charts in 1958 and has sold one hundred million copies http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Purple_People_Eater.